

"We have been close partners with Wainbridge for years, developing business partnerships all over the globe. Taking into account that a partner must be a reflection of you, I have always noticed and keep seeing a lot in common between our companies, such as an individual approach to doing business or a desire to change the industry for the better, and to perform to higher standards.

It is a real pleasure for us to present Company's projects abroad and in Moscow. The projects offered by Wainbridge have no alternatives. All of them, whether they are Bvlgari residences in the center of Moscow, or Belgravia Gate townhouses in the heart of London, they satisfy the demands of real estate connoisseurs with the most exquisite taste, if it's right to say - 'collectors' who hunt only for the best and most valuable.

With Wainbridge we speak the same language, that's why we easily get Company's values, that each project is based on, over to the target customers. We don't need to apply extra efforts: to chase for special words or to draw attention to the benefits. The projects speak for themselves. With this real estate developer the work runs smoothly, with a touch of heart. It's worth its weight in gold."

Shatalov Alexander, CEO Savills Russia

